Why is this week's topic important for teamwork? (20 points)

This week we learned about communication. Kind and direct communication is a requirement if you hope to be part of a successful team. It is through communication between group members that the thoughts and ideas of all group members can be combined to create ideas and projects that are greater than the sum of their parts.

How do plan on contributing to the team, besides completing your tasks? (20 points)

I plan on contributing to the team this coming week by doing my best to be a good communicator. I will do this by being kind, direct, and thoughtful when making observations or asking questions in a group setting.

How does your experience relate to other classmates' experiences? (20 points)

I'd imagine that my experiences this week were fairly similar to those of my classmates. Though we all possess different strengths and weaknesses regarding our methods of communication, I believe that there is always room to improve.

Tell me about what you taught someone? And what did they learn, that they didn't know before? (20 points)

My wife and I had a conversation about communication. We actually have conversations on the topic often, as we have a couple mutual friend whose relationships are struggling due to a lack of healthy communication. We agreed that it is often more important to get information out (ugly though it be) than to wait until we feel that we can perfectly express it.

If this was a religion class, how would you relate this week's topic to the gospel? (20 points)

Clear communication is a hallmark of the Lord and his servants. His messages are always presented without guile or ulterior motives. It is important that we try to communicate in an open and honest way that will allow the spirit to confirm the truthfulness of our words to those who listen.
