Why is this week's topic important for teamwork? (20 points)

This week we learned about different personality types. We learned about the main differences between introverts and extroverts. Knowing these things is extremely important because each person is different, and being able to quickly identify whether someone is introverted or extroverted will allow us to modify the way we interact with that person as to communicate with them more effectively.

How do plan on contributing to the team, besides completing your tasks? (20 points)

I plan on contributing to the team this coming week by striving to be more mindful of my team members preferred methods of interaction and communication. Doing so will allow everybody to feel more comfortable and increase the likelihood of everybody contributing.

How does your experience relate to other classmates' experiences? (20 points)

As part of this week's activities, we were encouraged to take the myers briggs personality test. I'd be willing to bet that there is a lot of variety amongst the members of our class in terms of personality traits. Though we mostly have different personality types, we all shared the experience of getting to know ourselves better.

Tell me about what you taught someone? And what did they learn, that they didn't know before? (20 points)

I spoke with my wife about the results of my personality test. She had taken it in the past and remembered her results. It was fun to compare and contrast our personality types. We were able to teach each other a bit about which characteristics we felt were the most accurate, and which ones we felt weren't so accurate.

If this was a religion class, how would you relate this week's topic to the gospel? (20 points)

I used this same example last week, but I feel that it still applies. I think a good example of people possessing different personalities and working together can be found in the story of Moses and Aaron. Moses was scared to speak with pharaoh, because he was "slow of speech", so the Lord allowed Aaron to serve as Moses' mouthpiece.
